

in living memory

Surviving Photographs from the Records of the NSW Aborigines Welfare Board, from 1919 to 1966

In Living Memory features images from a series of 1000 black and white photographs from the official records of the former NSW Aborigines Welfare Board. Most of the photographs were taken to document the work of the Board and to promote its policies.

The exhibition is helping to create a new purpose and place for the photographs within contemporary Indigenous life.

In Living Memory also includes images taken during the exhibition consultation process by Indigenous photographer Mervyn Bishop, and photos contributed by communities around New South Wales.

The Aborigines Welfare Board photos were taken within living memory and are being exhibited in loving memory. Welcome to the exhibition.
